1957 - PALERMO, ITALY - ROAD - 7 to 8 September

Great Britain did not send a team to these Championships due to ".....the apparent absence of a suitable outdoor surface in London or the provinces on which skaters could undertake training prior to selection in the team, the short notice received of the events taking place and the considerable expense that would have to be borne in travel to the venue".

As a result of Leo Easons declasification to last place in the 5000m and then a disputed decision involving Barbara Woodley in the ladies 500m knock-outs, the following statement was made by the Roller Speed Committee: "The occasion was a most unsatisfactory one for the British party of competitors and Officials, and in several instances there were deficiencies in organisation and which, when brought to notice, were not rectified......Added to the many incidences of mismanagement and wrong decisions to which attention was drawn, Mr.Lamb felt obliged to withdraw the British team from its engagement, action which had the approval of the British skaters and several other experienced speed skaters from this country".

Racing commenced on Sunday 26th with the losers final to decide places 13 to 25, whereby John Mullane duly won. "In the 500 Metres 'Knockout' event the four British skaters were in the last eight, and in the first Quarter-Final Mr Fry was fouled by an Italian [Cantarella] skater, and although all four Judges on that bend disqualified the Italian skater, the Referee at the opposite end of the track over-ruled them and disqualified the British skater. The team manager withdrew the British team, all but two judges left the track, most of the spectators left, and the referee continued the competition in which the Italians took the first four places."
